

STEWART MATHER RANKED AMONG BARRON'S TOP 100 INDEPENDENT ADVISORS

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS (September 19, 2018): Stewart Mather, Founder of The Mather Group (TMG), a boutique, fee-only wealth management firm with $2.8 billion in assets under management, was recently named to Barron's Top 100 Independent Financial Advisors list.

According to the magazine, the annual roster reflects the country's leading financial advisors who aren't affiliated with a major Wall Street bank or brokerage firm. Barron's takes dozens of factors into consideration, including assets managed, size and experience of teams, and advisor regulatory records.

TMG's ranking comes after years of impressive organic growth and an unwavering commitment to build a culture of advice, not sales. "Our success has been driven by our comprehensive, tech-forward offering and next-generation staff of 55 financial, tax and legal professionals across five offices in Chicago, Houston, Dallas, Atlanta and the San Francisco Bay Area," says Mather, age 40. "We're honored to be recognized by such an iconic publication for working tirelessly to put clients' best interest first—serving as a pure fiduciary without a brokerage license or affiliation to a large bank."

This is Mather's first ranking on the Barron's Top 100 Independent Advisors list, following three consecutive years of recognition on the Barron's Top 1,200 Advisors list and Financial Times Top 300 Financial Advisors list, as well as the Forbes Top Advisor list for 2017 and 2018. His firm was also recently named by InvestmentNews as one of the fastest-growing $1 billion+ registered investment advisors (RIA) in the country, posting 52 percent growth since last year.
